"A delightful collection of essays and observations, filled with laughter, tears, and above all a keen eye for observing God's spirit working in our lives." -Troy D. Smith, author of Bound for the Promise-Land Pamela Walton lives in Middle Tennessee. Prior to her position as a freelance writer for Moose River Media, CommonSense Media Group and other periodicals, she was a reporter for the Jackson County Sentinel. An inspirational speaker, writer and evangelical minister, she has brought the Gospel of Christ to those incarcerated and in the harvest field. She has served as a worship leader, visitation minister, teacher and jail chaplain. Her life experiences and writing assignments helped provide the unique Lifeons found within the pages of this book.
