A truly delightful picture book about exploring color in one's surroundings 'A sweet book for children aged three to six, which teaches rainbow-specific hues as well as the days of the week.' —Books+Publishing One Sunday, Esther spies a rainbow peeking out from under her chair . . . and then it's gone. She looks for colors in everything she sees, finding a different rainbow color each day of the week—but will she ever find her complete rainbow again? A warm and joyous family story about exploring the world, from two award-winning creators.
