Omega 4 Elena was going stir crazy. Being on lock down after the attack on Claire and Justice, she and the others had spent most of their days going over every threat ever received at Omega. None of the threats seemed to connect with the current situation. All she wanted was some air, so when Claire, Justice, and Marina are cleared to go to the hospital for a healing, with an escort of course, she decided to tag along. A big plus was that the only man she could see herself being remotely interested in at Omega was going along for the ride. When an unexpected prediction in the hospital waiting room makes her question her past, Elena starts to worry that somehow she might be part of the problem. Now, she is determined to find out what the attack on Claire and Justice has to do with her.
