Personal experiences learned from the life stories of other people motivated me to write this memoir. Whenever I faced adversity in the past, I would look for books with real stories about actual experiences. Such stories inspired and encouraged me to overcome many obstacles. Connecting with the emotional experiences of other people helped me realize that I was not alone. Moreover, I learned and benefited from the wisdom, compassion, and knowledge contained in their inspirational stories. I hope that my realizations and awareness from my experiences will be shared by people who are seeking encouragement, empathy, learning experiences, and their own identity.
