A Russian woman who gives little to no thought of the consequences of her misconduct, Valeriya persists in leading a care and random life. Not only does she party with abandon, but she is a tramp who sleeps around in order to break up marriages. She finds this nothing more than good sport. However, after one of her lovers' wife catches her in bed with her husband one night, Valeriya finds herself at the business end of a handgun. As she flees the situation, she finds herself in much worse straits. Now she faces consequences far worse and frightening, an ominous sign that might derail and alter her whole life forever.
