This short story contains material of a sexual nature. Man on Man sex. Intended for mature readers over eighteen. The rain had just let up, and the street was slick and glistening. I'd just turned a corner around an old abandoned building when I saw him standing there, leaning against the joint's front door. He was wearing a tight blue t-shirt that accentuated his broad shoulders and rock hard pecks. His blond hair was cut short and spiky, and his smoky blue eyes flashed on me, then bore into me with some real heat.
