People come to Plotlands to escape but few seem to stay very long. Graham makes a fresh start after murdering his wife but can a leopard change its spots? Jack hides from his biker gang in the backwater of Plotlands but then another biker moves in next door... Shazza is only looking for love but just when it seems she has found it, her past returns with a vengeance. In these eleven short stories, the residents of this decayed, seaside shantytown, on the coast of North Wales, nurse their secrets. They are trying for new beginnings or dreaming of what might have been but the past has a way of catching up. Unexpected futures lie on the horizon even for Plotlands itself.
