I first began meeting with Oswald Chambers in the early 1980s after strong encouragement from another friend. So Oswald and I began our morning chats, like all new acquaintances, cautiously and carefully. I soon realized I had stumbled onto a friend who would journey with me for the remainder of my life, which, of course, is a bit odd considering the fact he died in 1917, nearly 65 years before our first conversation. His book, My Utmost For His Highest, quickly became a guide for my journey, and count others, into the Kingdom of God. Soon, he and I were regulars at the table with the King. Let me invite you to join our conversation. Don't be surprised if you soon find yourself looking forward to your own Mornings With Oswald...
