Exotic dancer Monroe Calliste recognizes the reindeer shifter eyeing her with open curiosity as she performs on stage. She remembers too well the one night they allowed themselves free reign over each other's bodies. But he doesn't recall their tryst, or maybe pretends not to. Either way, Monroe sets out to give him a refresher course. Dasher Petrovic has no memory of the coffee-colored temptress insisting they shared more than their bodies at one time. Monroe's eyes reflect a mutual burn, but she can't be right. If he'd spent even a second in her bed, he'd know. His ice melts under Monroe's fire, but the question remains, what happened to his memory?
