Magic, metaphysics, and a chance encounter with a gypsy fortuneteller, coalesce to irrevocably change three lives. Christopher Hartman and his live-in, Beau, can't understand why their successful magician friend, Marco, "Abracadabra," Scarpucci, is insecure in his personal life. For months, he has been crushing on Sam, a dancer, several years his junior. But Marco can't screw up the courage to ask him out. Christopher plots, but fails, to successfully intervene. But when Marco intervenes, convincing Christopher and Beau to see a gypsy fortuneteller, the lives of the three men are irrevocably altered; in a way that changes their beliefs about the very nature of reality.
