Marisol is a struggling journalist trying to make her way in the big city without a penny to her name. Park Fielding is the toast of high society and big business alike, with a taste for the best scotch and the most desirable women. So when Park offers to play a game with her in exchange for an exclusive interview, Marisol readily agrees. The two square up against each other in a sensual game that will pit lust versus manipulation, ruthness against love. But before a winner can be determined, she must agree to be his TOY.
