In late Nineteenth Century New Haven naive Lydia Chester eagerly expects a new beginning in New York City. Instead, on the train bound for her new home, life as she knows it is ripped away by an attack from supernatural creatures she never realized existed. Now with the gifts of the supernatural, Lydia finds herself fleeing a sadistic captor and relent bounty hunter to reunite with her family. Even if she is not caught, will her husband and daughter accept her still, though she has transformed into something terrifying?
