David Meador is burned out. He has left the treacherous world of academia for a calmer life as a bookstore manager in the mountains of East Tennessee. But calm doesn't necessarily equal happiness. It's been years now since David was in love with another man. It is the Yuletide season, and in the midst of all David's dissatisfaction arrives young Adam Norton, a self-styled hippie on his own odyssey for self-fulfillment. David is captured not only by the young man's fresh good looks but by his individuality as well. He falls headfirst. But will Adam be there to catch him?
